A COLORADO COLONY.

AN UNDESIRABLE CLASS OF PEOPLE IN TOWN.

Poor People from Colorado Arrive in Guthrie and Solicit Work and Alms.

A colony of poor people from the state of Colorado arrived in the city yesterday.

They are people who were thrown out of work by the closing down of the silver mines last summer in the great silver state.

Since that time thousands of miners accompanied by their families, have left Colorado and gone east, and hundreds of others are still enroute east and south.

At many towns they have been hospitably treated and provided with all the necessities required to sustain life. Yesterday a whole colony of these people arrived at Perry. Many remained there, but scores pushed on to this city, and are now seeking alms.

For the most part these "miners" are deserving of aid, as they are hard workers, but it is tough to have them thrown upon a community. Last evening a number of indigent families were provided for and sent out of town, but many are still here and will probably remain all winter.
